Safe for the future

I'M so pleased to read St George's Chapel is set to be preserved for future generations. Although I've never seen them myself, I read that it has beautiful mosaics and marbles and a VC memorial. All well worth preserving. It seems ironic, though, that although these were not destroyed when it was bombed by the Nazis in 1944, they could easily have been lost for ever by being at risk from the elements.

Simon Jones, Plumstead

My son needs to go up a class

I'VE regularly enjoyed taking my son - who's nearly three - swimming to the Eltham Centre for lessons. However, for the past year he's been unable to move up a class because they are so over-subscribed.
It's now the case that we are having to take him out of the programme as he's stuck in a class with children of six months old. We're now trying to take him to the Waterfront Centre as often as possible so he can practice his swimming but our experience there has been mixed - understaffing has meant the smaller pools being closed when they are scheduled to be open.
We really want him to be in regular lessons to suit his age group but this seems impossible in the borough at the moment. Can any extra lessons be put on?

Cecily Parry, Eltham

● A spokesperson for GLL , which runs royal borough pools, said: "GLL is continually reviewing and adapting the swimming provision offered within the borough in order to best meet our customers' needs. During 2012 alone we have provided lessons for an additional 400 swimming pupils compared with the previous year.
"There are a number of available places within the Swim School for children aged from two to three and a half at the Eltham Centre and other leisure centres within Greenwich.
"We would be happy to meet with the customer to discuss her requirements and find a way which we can accommodate them."

The spirit of competition

Star Letter

I'M writing to say how great it was to see the report in GT about the annual borough swimming championships.
You could see the nervousness – and therefore the bravery to compete – in one of the excellent photographs.
Young people who take part in competitive sport put themselves through a lot, the training and then the pressure of competition. There was a crazy period some years ago when competitive sport was more or less banned in schools (it was okay to compete in Maths and English!) but happily that is all behind us now and most people realise that learning how to take victory and defeat graciously is good for a young person's development (and how wonderful were the Olympic and Paralympic Games!).
Sorry to go on but I'd also like to thank the people behind the scenes at the swimming who make sure that it all goes smoothly. These are "volunteers" who don't normally make the headlines.

I. Bishop, Lee

SEE how they can help

AS a small business owner, I was pleased to read that South East Enterprise is doing all it can to help local businesses benefit from all the development going on in the borough. The Meet the Buyer event they have organised is a very good idea and will help smaller businesses to promote themselves to the big contractors who don't usually give us a look in. I've had some good advice from SEE in regards of preparing a bid and much of their support is free, which beats calling a consultant and forking out £250 in charges.
It's good to have somewhere local to go and I would urge fellow business owners to get in touch with them.

Homes flooded

EVACUATED: the housing block had to be dreid out before electricity was restored

Police launch appeal after copper thieves cause flooding at flats

POLICE are appealing for information from anyone who may have seen metal thieves who stole copper parts from water tanks causing the flooding of a block of flats.

Forty homes were evacuated over the weekend and temporary accommodation found for residents after gallons of water poured through the ten storey building in Villas Road, Woolwich.

It happened after thieves stole copper parts from the two main water tanks in the block last Thursday afternoon. The flooding led to a small electrical fire in one of the flats and varying degrees of damage to each property.

Royal Borough staff were on site as soon as they were alerted and worked with Thames Water and the fire brigade to stop the flow of water.

Around 80 to 100 residents were offered the use of a rest area until temporary accommodation could be found for them over the weekend.

Cllr Steve Offord, the royal borough's cabinet member for housing, said:: "Our staff remained on site overnight to provide support to the residents, and staff are continuing to work on site. The block needs to be dried out before full electricity supply can be restored. Our thanks go to staff at the Glyndon community centre who helped to provide emergency care for residents."

The level and cost of the damage was still being assessed.

Plumstead Police who are investigating the theft said: "At this stage it would appear that the flood resulted from the theft of copper parts in the two main water tanks in the block, and we are examining CCTV footage to see what evidence this might contain. We would urge anyone with information about this crime, or who saw anyone acting suspiciously in the area to call Sergeant Craig Johnson and the Glyndon Safe Neighbourhoods team on 020 8721 2638."

Three men jailed for 33 years for kidnapping

THREE men have been sentenced to a total of 33 years in prison after they held a man against his will in Charlton.

The sentence follows an investigation by detectives in Greenwich.

Andre Phillips, 21 of Rosedale Close, Abbey Wood; Jamelle Baptiste,1 9, of Wricklemarsh Road, Kidbrooke, and Lyndon Johnson, 24 from Waltham Forest, were all sentenced at Woolwich Crown Court on October 5, after a four-week trial.

Johnson and Baptiste received a total 12 years in prison each for false imprisonment, possession of a firearm, possession of a firearm with intent to commit an offence and assault, whilst Andre Phillips received nine years for false imprisonment. One further person, arrested and charged as part of the initial investigation, remains in custody pending trial for his involvement.

The case follows events on January 19 just after 10pm when police in Greenwich received a 999 call from members of the public who had witnessed a man being taken against his will.

Police went to Greenbay Road in Charlton, where they found a 20-year-old being detained against his will whilst being assaulted and threatened with a shotgun.

The victim had been forced to ring family and friends and ordered to hand over £5,000 to his assailants. When he failed to raise the money, the suspects threatened to kill him, however officers arrived in time and managed to disrupt the suspects.

Five men were arrested on the same evening, after the police helicopter India 99, response officers and detectives from Greenwich set up a manhunt to catch them.

Detective Sergeant Mick Smith in charge of the investigation said: "The victim went through a terrifying ordeal and I am pleased with the sentence the three men have received - they are dangerous individuals and are now behind bars. Police in Greenwich would like to thank all the witnesses that came forward and called police when they noticed the victim being assaulted. They probably saved his life by calling us. I hope that this sends a clear message to anyone else trying to extort money whilst using violence and guns. We will thoroughly investigate incidents of this kind and will do all that we can to bring those responsible to court".

Dine with 2012 stars at fundraising dinner

OLYMPIC and paralympic heroes from Royal Greenwich are the guests of honour at a glittering gala dinner for the stars of London 2012 .

Judo silver medal winner Gemma Gibbons, weightlifter Zoe Smith, who smashed the GB weightlifting record and Andy Barrow, who competed in the wheelchair rugby were all supported by the Greenwich Starting Blocks Trust and will be attending the Starting Blocks Gala Dinner at The O2 on Wednesday next week (October 24).

The charity also supports Tosin Oke, who reached the Olympic men's triple jump finals, and other athletes who are working hard to achieve their own sporting dreams.

The event has been organised by the Greenwich Starting Blocks Trust, a charity set up in 2006 to support up-and-coming athletes with the costs of training, travelling and competing.

The Trust has issued an open invitation to anyone who would like to attend the fundraising event which includes a reception drink and a three-course dinner.

It's a chance to dine with the stars of London 2012 and hear about their sporting successes first hand. Diners can buy tickets for a young up-and-coming athlete to be at their table - so they could be dining with a future Olympic or Paralympic star!

The evening includes a film of young athletes showing how their training is going while opera singer Sean Ruane is set to perform. Besides attending the gala dinner, individual and corporate sponsors can support Greenwich Starting Blocks athletes by donating directly, through Justgiving.

Chris Roberts, chair of the Trust, said: "These athletes were able to continue to work towards their Olympic and Paralympic goals thanks to Greenwich Starting Blocks bursaries - awarded at crucial times in their development when alternative funding was not available to them. We want to continue this important work to support local young athletes as they prepare for their next challenges. By supporting young athletes now, we can all share in their future success."

Tickets are £100, to book, email dee.delany@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or call 020 8921 5040. For more information about Greenwich Starting Blocks visit www.greenwichstartingblocks.org.uk

Barking dog costs its owner £600

A BARKING dog cost its Abbey Wood owner a £300 fine and another £300 in court costs.

Carly Colman from Bostall Lane admitted three counts of allowing her dog to cause a noise nuisance through its regular barking.

She pleaded guilty by letter after a prosecution was brought by the Royal Borough of Greenwich.

On the same day, magistrates at Bexley Magistrates' Court also fined Paul Van-As of Hengist Road, Eltham, £800 with £800 costs for four counts of breaching a noise abatement notice. The court heard that he allowed loud amplified music to cause a noise nuisance to his neighbours.

He was convicted in his absence in the case, also brought by the royal borough.

Magistrates granted a forfeiture order, which means the council can dispose of the audio equipment seized from Van-As's flat.

Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the royal borough's cabinet member for environment and community safety, said: "Inconsiderate people who make loud noise – or allow their dogs to do so – can cause real upset and anger to ordinary residents. As a local authority, we will not hesitate to take them to court if they ignore the warnings and continue to make other people's lives a misery. They will be hit hard in the pocket, and stand to lose some of their property."

WINDOW ON THE COMMUNITY: Students Ugur Celikbilek, Chloe Rigg and Emily Grain with artist Shallman Quashie

STUDENTS from Greenwich Community College are the driving force behind a unique exhibition of artwork that depicts life in Royal Greenwich in 2012.

The free show is on at the Discover Greenwich Visitor Centre in Cutty Sark Gardens until October 21 and brings to life the findings of a community survey where the students asked people what living in the royal borough meant for them.

Themes of the artworks include the impact of the Olympics and Paralympics, the pride in military connections with the arrival of the King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery, the aftermath of last year's riots, and a celebration of equality and diversity.

It came about because students from the college's Level 1 Public Services course wanted to produce a piece of legacy artwork to represent their community. They devised some designs based on the survey's findings, then worked with local artist Shallman Quashie who produced the artwork

The students are learning about the military, the prison and emergency services on their course, and many see it as a career step.

Chloe Rigg, 17, from Woolwich, who wants to become a firefighter, told GT: "We did a survey of both students, and people in the street and asked what most showed what their community was like."

Emily Grain, 18, from Charlton, who wants to become a prison or police officer, said: "We came up with the ideas for the artist to work on, and briefed him. it was a chance for teamwork and team-building."

And Ugur Celikbilek, 17, from New Eltham, who wants to join the police, said: "We thought it was important to feature the Olympics, and the best bit was helping to design it. It took us eight weeks, and we then spent two weeks briefing the artist."

Artist Shallman Quashie told GT: "It was really nice working with the students, and I was able to pass on some of my skills to them. They didn't know much about art before this, and it helped

The 'bourne Identity

A pair of young businessmen straight out of Ravensbourne college are making their mark

by Rod Kitson

IT'S a business model that could have the Dragons quaking in their den.

A pair of students from Ravensbourne college started a business two years ago, and in their second year doubled their turnover. So far, clients have included one of Italy's most iconic motor companies, and a pop star who's launching a clothing line.

After graduating, Billy Clancy and Marc Cross began the company at the college on Greenwich peninsula, taking advantage of its offer to let start-up businesses use the premises for free. Billy said: "They had everything that we needed, office space, all the best equipment, and we were excited that it was a new building."

Marc added: "It had really modern technology, and it was right in the area we wanted to be. Being around other creative people was great as well."

The pair, both 24 years old, are moving on to new premises now, but hope to stay in Greenwich.

The design company is called Klinical. Billy said: "It's branding and web design, so a lot of branding and corporate identities."

Marc explained: "What we love most is taking a brand from scratch – just a name and what the business is and coming up with colours, logos, websites and unique ways of making that brand different.

"With every single brand we try and think of something different, so visually you recognise straight away what that brand is."

One of the pair's first clients was scooter giant, Vespa.

"That was within six months of starting Klinical," Marc said. "That was an online ad campaign for the launch of the new Vespa PX scooter. We came up with the tag line 'Live Vespa, love Vespa', which is what probably clinched it for us."

Like going into the Dragons' Den, the pitch had to be perfect. Billy added: "We pitched an idea that was retro – like the bike – and made an animation. We worked really hard in practising the presentation over and over again."

"We're quite lucky in that most of our clients have been very happy with what we've done."

Their client base has so far been really diverse, including a florist, a violin restorer and a current customer is a pop star who's launching his own fashion label.

Klinical are remaining tight-lipped about the identity of the star – we wanted to spill the beans but there's no time…

The pair are now launching a new business directory for Greenwich, which they hope will become as indispensable as the Yellow Pages or the Thomson Directory.

It's called the Guru Guide and will feature all the borough's top restaurants, bars, businesses and shops that choose to list.

The guide's unique selling point, says Billy, is that it will give the businesses an online presence as well.

"All the businesses who list get a QR code that links to their own website which we can make for them. They will be able to update and change it as they like."

For more info about Klinical and the Guru Guide go to www.klinical.co.uk

HANDS-ON: internet fans swap ideas at a previous Mozilla Fest

Weave the web of the future at internet fest

INTERNET fans can help to create the web of the future at a celebration of online technology next month.

Coders, gamers, media-makers, educators and young young people will be gathering at Ravensbourne for the Mozilla Festival from November 9-11. The event is three days of inspired web making, learning and celebration. The annual event is a chance for people to explore the creative power of the web and how to make it, not just use it.

More than 800 passionate people are expected to take part in a series of design challenges, learning labs and fireside chats. It's a hands-on event with the emphasis on collaboration, and anyone who has a passion for the web is welcome. Sessions, which include Hackable Games, Webmaking for Mobile and Web-native Cinema, will be of paritucular interest to young web makers, coders and app developers.

Activities on the Saturday and Sunday include sessions for local people, and young people from 11to 18. And tickets start from as little as £5 for under-18s.

"We want everyone to tap the full creative power of the web. The Mozilla Festival is a magnet for people interested in learning about and playing with the web's future," said Mark Surman, executive director of Mozilla, best known for the Firefox browser. "Technology is at the point where learners don't just use the tools, but make the tools. This happens at places like the Mozilla Festival, where geeks and practitioners get together," added Joi Ito, a member of the Mozilla Foundation board, a non-profit organisation that promotes openness, innovation and participation on the Internet.

SHOWBIZ AND ERMINE: Year 10 students and Headteacher Sue Flanagan with Lord Grade

Making the Grade

STUDENTS at Plumstead Manor School heard how a glittering career in television can lead to a seat in the House of Lords during a visit from ITV's Michael Grade.
Now Baron Grade of Yarmouth, Lord Grade spoke for an hour to the Year 10 students about the British political system, the House of Lords, and his long career in television. The visit was designed to encourage students to become more involved with the political and Parliamentary process. Lord Grade held a question and answer session on Parliament and life at Westminster. He also took questions about his long show-business career at ITV, the BBC and Channel 4.
Year 10 student Sangeeta Jethwa said: 'It was so lovely to meet Lord Grade. He was such a charming man and I feel I know much more about the House of Lords now. It was also great to hear about his media career – it's amazing he's met so many famous people!'
Orkun Ari, teacher responsible for Citizenship at Plumstead Manor School, said: "This was a fantastic opportunity for our students to interact with someone who knows the Parliamentary system inside out, as it can sometimes seem far removed from their daily lives."
The visit was arranged through the Lord Speaker's 'Peers in Schools' programme. This has been running across the UK since 2007 and to date has involved around 50,000 young people. This programme sends members of the House of Lords into schools and colleges across the country to give talks in support of the citizenship curriculum.

Moves on foot tunnel delay

THE cabinet of the Royal Borough of Greenwich is set to consider a report tomorrow (October 17) to review the refurbishment of the two foot tunnels under the Thames and to agree a course of action to allow the work to be completed as quickly as possible.

Refurbishment of the tunnels has been ongoing since 2010. The project has suffered severe delays and has resulted in the council changing contractors to facilitate the completion of the work.

The work is now substantially over budget and while seeking to complete the works as expeditiously as possible, the council will be seeking to recover costs from previous contractors through negotiation, contract dispute resolution and possibly litigation.

During the course of the refurbishment, project management arrangements have been intensified and an enhanced programme of works agreed to ensure that the tunnels could be operational as soon as possible and to minimise the inconvenience to the public. The Royal Borough of Greenwich shares the frustration of tunnel users and the public over the time taken to complete this project and apologises for the ongoing delays to this work. Legal advice is being sought to determine any case for recovering the additional costs from the contractors.

Tops for the shops

THE Demelza children's hospice in Eltham is asking people to donate their tops to its shops.

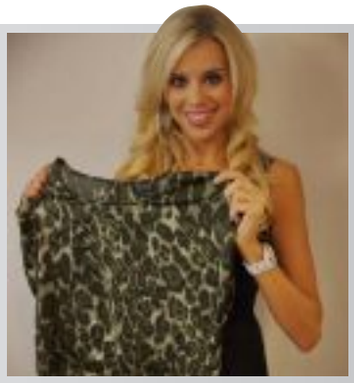

The charity is launching a stock appeal to help keep the shelves of its 19 shops full. The hospice particularly needs ladies' tops – one of its top-selling items.

Demelza relies almost entirely on fundraising, donations and gifts in wills. It needs to raise £8 million this year.

The campaign is being backed by Charlie O'Brien from Heart Breakfast radio. She said: "I've recently moved house so I'm having a clear-out and donating my old favourite tops to my local children's hospice. "

Demelza relies on having quality items to sell in their shops to help raise funds for their hospice service supporting families who need them across Kent, East Sussex and South East London.

To find your nearest shop go to www.demelza.org.uk or ring 01795 845200. Alternatively you can take items to the hospice in Wensley Close, Eltham.

Biggest cannabis factory closed

CANNABIS with a street value of more than £600,000 was seized across Greenwich when officers took part in "Operation Hawk", tackling drug-related crime.

Three cannabis factories were closed in Lakedale Road, Plumstead, Kenya Road, Charlton, and the biggest factory ever discovered in Herringham Road, Charlton.

A total of 850 cannabis plants were seized in Herringham Road while 300 cannabis resin parcels worth approximately £100,000 were seized in Kenya Road.

Officers also seized £44,000 under the Proceeds of Crime Act. The operation followed a renewed call to the public to encourage them to come forward with information about who may be selling or cultivating drugs in their area.

Safer Neighbourhoods officers were supported by colleagues from units including Trident, the specialist drugs command, Mounted Branch, Territorial Support Group (TSG), the Marine Policing Unit, special constables and police cadets.

Chief Inspector Cliff Eager said: "We have made a dent in the pockets of local criminals and we have seriously disrupted their drug dealings."

This is your invite to Fright Night!

Families' camping offer from environment centre

WIDE SMILE: child enjoys outdoor fun at Widehorizons

by Peter Cordwell

ANYONE up for a night with the creepy crawlies - not to mention spooks, witches and ghouls?

Those brave enough will sign up for the Fright Night Challenge at the Widehorizons Environment Centre on Saturday, October 27, when families will camp overnight in the centre's grounds.

The centre in Bexley Road, Eltham, will be transformed into a haunted woodland to cater for all your Halloween scares.

As youngsters venture into the grounds they'll be guided through a variety of hair-raising activities including a cackling witch hunt, spooky stories around the campfire, a magical bouncy castle and live creepy crawlies.

If you dare take on the Fright Night Challenge families will have the chance to camp overnight as the organiser Julianna Feher told GT: "We will provide families with a tent, scares and an 'I Survived Fright Night' T-shirt in the morning, followed by a breakfast for the whole family.

"There is a five-pound registration fee for each family tent and a pledge to fundraise for local charity Widehorizons, who provide adventurous experiences for children in in the borough."

Many local residents will have fond memories of visiting Widehorizons outdoor centres and experiencing first-hand the benefits of learning outside of the classroom.

OUTDOOR CLASSROOM: school pupils have fun while they're learning at the Widehorizons centre

Julianna added: "Events like Fright Night are a great opportunity for the local community to ensure that future generations will be able to enjoy the centre."

If camping out all night is too much of a fright you can still join the fright night fun at the centre from 6pm-10pm for £3 a child with free access to all of the activities, including the candy floss machine and face painting.

OLYMPIC LEGACY

THEY'RE called the Greenwich Titans, they're competing in the National Basketball League - which started with an historic home game at Crown Woods College on Sunday (October 14) - and they represent an Olympic legacy that's positively buzzing with energy and commitment.

A showcase game against Met Trident Greenwich was held last Tuesday and all the ingredients were there - cheerleaders, raucous music, razmatazz introductions, a big and enthusiastic audience, a great atmosphere and brilliant basketball...everyone loved it.

The new club, starting in Division Four of the National League, is the result of a year's work by the Greenwich Sports Academy based at the college in Bexley Road, Eltham, where new sports facilities are being enjoyed by sports clubs and the wider community. There are youth teams, including a girls' team, as well as the first team.

Player coach Ashley Thomas, alongside with head coach Joel Moore, was a beaming presence as the night unfolded.

"This is the culmination of an awful lot of hard work by lots of people," said Ashley. "Basketball has spread across the borough and I would say there are 500 young people playing the game today that had never played it two years ago.

"First team players come from all over the borough and their ages range from 19 to 31. The younger players also represented the borough at the London Youth Games and actually beat the eventual winners in their section.

"At Crown Woods there's been a definite improvement in attendance and performance among the players. Sport helps them look at themselves and ask where they want to be in five years' time. It gives them a dream and something to strive for."

The first team's first game was against Southend Scorpions on Sunday (October 14), while the Under 18s played away on Saturday to Brixton Topcats.

"Overall, it's been a challenging but very exciting year. Half of our Under 18 team weren't playing this time last year. We've made great progress and it's a fantastic scene to be involved with."

Elijah Laidlaw, 15, lives in Greenwich and plays shooting guard for the club's Under 16 team. He gets into Crown Woods by 6.45 most mornings to get in extra practice.

"I went to training once and knew I liked the sport and wanted to play for the team," said Elijah. "I love the teamwork and the passion. You can't play basketball unless you've got the passion for it. You just fall in love with it."

Team-mate Kieron Smith, also 15, who lives in Lee, added: "When you shoot the thrill of it is amazing. Basketball is great because it gives you self-esteem and is good for the rest of school. We both want to be pros, so bad! In America if possible. You have to be spotted and work your way to the top."

Tennis set to hit new heights

TENNIS in the royal borough is set to take off as players of all ages and abilities are welcomed to brand new facilities costing £222,000 in a park that already has a lido and BMX track.

Four adult courts and four mini-tennis courts were opened at Hornfair Park in Charlton on Friday (October 12).

Shooters Hill and the Greenwich City tennis clubs will run a wide range of courses at the courts, which will also be available for public use on a pay-as-you-play basis.

"It's a fantastic facility." said John Ratcliffe, chairman of directors at Shooters Hill Tennis Club in Eaglesfield Road. "We were delighted to support Greenwich City Tennis in the development of tennis at Hornfair Park and build a club. Since the Olympic Games and Andy Murray's victory, junior membership has really shot up. I think we have had 20 new members, which is brilliant.

"There's a lot of untapped talent and one of our jobs at Hornfair Park will be to recognise the talent and pass it on to the national system so that we find more Murrays."

Steve Johnston, tennis development officer of the Greenwich City Tennis Club based at Eltham Park South, told GT:"With the council's strategy of making Hornfair Park a sporting hub, we'll be helping to manage the courts with a view to setting up a community club there.

"It will cater for people in the Charlton and Woolwich area who would not get easily to the Eltham base. It's very central, which is good, and we'll be running programmes very similar to the ones at Eltham with juniors from four or five upwards to adults.

"It's a great opportunity for schools as well. We'll be looking to organise competitions and tournaments there."

"What Hornfair has that we don't are the four mini-courts for the younger age groups, which means that children can graduate through a performance pathway to the adult courts."

The club will provide free access for Greenwich residents to play tennis during off peak periods. Royal Greenwich and the clubs will launch a big summer programme in 2013.

The new courts have been funded from the Playground to Podium Legacy Fund the Lawn Tennis Association and the Mayor of London.

Cllr Peter Kotz, the royal borough's cabinet member for culture and creative industries, said: "The new tennis courts represent the latest sporting legacy and demonstrates our commitment to developing accessible sporting facilities for the local community. This latest addition to Hornfair Park, which already boasts a BMX race track, grass sports pitches with team changing rooms and a 50m heated lido, makes it a true multi-sports park."

Award for special sporting stars

A SPECIAL school's commitment to sport and PE has been recognised by a gold award from the Youth Sport Trust.

The award makes Charlton Park Academy, formerly Charlton School, in Charlton Park Road a Gold Partner with the trust, which recognises the school's "outstanding PE" within its curriculum.

"It also shows how we link with other primary schools and bring them into the academy in a spirit of inclusion," said PE teacher Neal Collard. "Sport is one of the main areas for our students to excel in lessons as well as let off steam and help with their behaviour and self-esteem. It teaches specific life skills, especially not giving up but keeping going.

"Some of them got to see some Olympic and Paralympic events, which was great, and rest assured we are always on the lookout for special talents at the school."

A former academy student, James Macleod, is now doing sports studies at Greenwich Community College but still runs the school's running club.

"James is one of our biggest success stories and we are all very proud of him," said Neal. "He went from being quite difficult to joining in and is now just brilliant.

"He's living proof of how inclusion works and it's great that he now comes back to us for work experience."

PLEASE STAND UP: McIntyre's O2 gigs were part of 71-date UK tour

McIntyre uncovered

ARE popularity and edginess two sides of an impossible symbiosis? Can cool ever hitch a ride on popular culture like a pilot fish on the gnarled skin of a corporate shark?

The exceptions to the rule are countable on one hand – the Fab Four did it, but few others. Michael McIntyre is the biggest of comedy fish, and he certainly isn't hip. While he may be mainstream, even for the most hardened of cynics there is undeniable craft in his act.

By the time he'd finished his 10-night residency at The O2, McIntyre had been on stage for a staggering 20 hours. He's brilliant at judging his audience, cynical perhaps, but his timing is impeccable. He softened up the audience with a healthy dose of hegemonic patriotism, before indulging in charade-style Olympic enactments. It's a given that no comedian's stories are actually true, but McIntyre spins the most unlikely of domestic situations into the most compelling vignettes.

In this populist niche he is peerless.

Early music to our ears

FANCY being part of one of the world's biggest music fairs? If so, the Royal Greenwich International Early Music Festival and Exhibition is coming to the borough this November.

WOOLWICH'S answer to Gareth Malone is hoping to hit all the high notes after setting up a community choir all of her own.

BBC TV star Gareth shot to fame three years ago with his prime-time show, The Choir, and now Wendy Young has set up her own weekly sing-along.

Wendy was inspired by the work Gareth did when he went into some of the country's most troubled communities and brought the people together through song.

HITTING THE RIGHT NOTES: the Woolwich Singers in rehearsal

Singing to The Choir!

The Woolwich singing group to rival BBC's Gareth

She told Scene: "I love that show, there was the one about the military wives which really made me want to set up something of my own.

"Then there was the show about the naughty boys – singing in the choir is so empowering, I was actually watching lives change. I thought the show was wonderful."

Wendy's group, the Woolwich Singers meet every Wednesday at the Clockhouse Community Centre on Woolwich Dockyard.

"There are so many benefits to singing," she said. "It brings communities together, improves confidence and people have a great time while they're doing it." By day, the choirmaster is a teacher of English as a second language, which helped her meet the group's Hungarian musical director, Rita Monori, and the Lithuanian pianist who accompanies the singers, Sandra.

"We're trying to attract all backgrounds and reflect the diversity of the area," Wendy said. "The dream is that we'll bring many different communities together."

The group meet every week in term time, and began in May before the summer break.

The first Autumn leaves were falling as the group reconvened at the end of September. So far the choir has 29 members. But ambitious Wendy hopes to attract many more.

"We'd like to get it to at least 100 members," she said. "But the possibilities are infinite – it could go on growing and growing. Our main goals are to of course be a choir that is of a very high standard, but also to build community spirit through song." RK

Woolwich Singers meet every Wednesday at Clockhouse Community Centre, Defiance Walk Woolwich Dockyard from 6-8pm. Each session is £1. More info call Wendy on 07812 477775

WIN WIN! Tickets to burlesque

THE art of burlesque has been wowing and titillating audiences across the globe for many centuries, becoming prevalent in 17th century France and Italy.

Originally perceived throughout Europe as parody and the grotesque and becoming particularly ripe in Victorian times, the discipline has evolved into the 21st century with sophistication and allure featuring a sense of glamour, striptease, seduction, choreography, musical theatre, comedy and sparkling couture costumes.

Famous performers of the burlesque include Dita Von Teese, and pop star Pink has demonstrated athleticism and gymnastic style in her concerts with homage to the theatre of the burlesque. Not to mention the catapulting popularity of 2001 movie Moulin Rouge which helped make the image of burlesque into a household name.

It comes closer to home later this month when Evening of Burlesque makes a stop to the Indigo2 on October 26 as part of its nationwide tour. Performers include Amber Topaz and the Folly Mixtures.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 309

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

1. Get on the list
 First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

2. Find your applicant number
 It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

3. Pick out your ideal property
 by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website: www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes
 Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

4. Apply in one of two ways
 - Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
 - Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 24 October 2012 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 21 October 2012.

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

This is what happened to the homes advertised in issue 306

JJ in top 10 men

SIXTEEN-year-old fencer Jonathan "JJ" Webb (right) was up among the big boys at the Men's Senior National Championships at the English Institute of Sport in Sheffield but still finished a creditable10th.

In the team event the New Eltham competitor even got to fence against this year's British Olympian James Honeybone, from Cornwall, and only just lost to him 5-4.

"I had been looking forward to the senior nationals as the results don't count towards my rankings and there was no major pressure on me," said JJ.

"I had a great weekend and after winning all my Poule fights I was ranked seventh overall for the competition. It was a great preparation for the Meylan international event."

Two weeks earlier, JJ won a bronze medal at the Bedford Men's Under 20 nominated event.

Although still competing and ranked in the Under 17 Cadets, all the cadets have to take part in the nominated junior event which scores towards their cadet ranking.

After two ranking competitions this season the results puts JJ into second place in the Under 17s cadets and 8th in the Under 20 rankings. They have also secured his selection on the GB team for the international to be held at Meylan (France) on the October 20.

Backed for the third year running by Greenwich Starting Blocks, JJ finished last season as the GB No. 1 in the Under 17 rankings and hopes to retain the title at the end of this season.

He is now being coached by head coach, Ian Williams, who represented Great Britain at 1992 Olympic Games and is a former senior national sabre coach.

JJ said: "I struggled to find my form at the opening competition and slipped to fifth place. I was very pleased with the Bedford result as it was an Under 20 competition and I fought well, just losing out in the semi-final.

"Although the domestic results are important I have been told just to concentrate mainly on qualifying for this year's European and World Championships".

JJ finished 11th in the Under 17 World Championships last year and hopes to improve or even medal this year, before moving into the Under Twenty Juniors next year.

In the national final, to be played at the Crowne Plaza Resort, Colchester, on Sunday October 28, they will be playing against 11 teams from all over England.

The winners and runners-up there will qualify for the Home Nations Final against juniors from Ireland, Scotland and Wales, to be played next March at Antequerra, Costa del Sol.

Eltham golfers make national final

IT wasn't only at the Medinah Country Club in Illinois that golfing joy was unrestrained on the weekend of September 29-30.

The junior team from Eltham Warren Golf Club had their own Ryder Cup moment when they won the SE Regional Final of the Home Nations Inter-Club Championship and now go forward to the England National Final.

"It is a stunning achievement by the boys," said club captain Chris Jennings, "especially when you think that we are a small, nine-hole club and they were competing against teams from big clubs with dozens of juniors to choose from.

"The whole club is right behind them and so proud of what they have done."
